BEFORE B12

Website was a time-suck that Maxell Tillman outgrew

Maxwell Tillman's original website needed constant management and maintenance. By 2020, the firm's content and visual needs had outgrown its online platform. Leroy received little guidance on how to improve the firm's online efforts and knew he needed a cost-effective website service with a more hands-on approach. He wanted help growing his site while he focused on growing his business. With that priority in mind, he began sourcing local alternatives.

During his search, Leroy tried local website designers based in Alabama but was unsatisfied with the results. Around this time, he discovered B12 and was impressed by the initial AI website draft. With a prompt response from B12's design consultant, Dan Mule, Leroy learned about B12's website and SEO services, and was convinced.

B12 did a wonderful job with my website.

Convinced that together we could be effective, we signed on the dotted line in March 2020. In any industry, they tend to forget about you once you sign on the dotted line, but that was not the case with B12. Their continued support and monthly recommendations helped me grow my online presence significantly.
